Dear Colleagues,

On behalf of the journal 'Remote Sensing', we would like to congratulate Dr. Robert Brewin as the winner of the 2018 Remote Sensing Young Investigator Award.

Dr. Brewin works in the Plymouth Marine Laboratory, United Kingdom, having obtained his PhD in Satellite Oceanography at the University of Plymouth.

2018 YOUNG INVESTIGATOR AWARD WINNER

He has an outstanding publication record of 58 papers, including 16 in Remote Sensing of Environment, along with some high impact papers in Nature Geoscience and Scientific Reports.

He is Co-Investigator of NERC's National Centre for Earth Observation, and serves on the Editorial Board for the Journal of Plankton Research.

He is also Guest Editor for Remote Sensing Journal Special Issue "Remote Sensing of Ocean Colour".

Dr. Brewin will receive 2,000 Swiss Francs for his ground-breaking contributions to the advancement of remote sensing in oceans and phytoplankton research.
