Edited by: Remo Campiche

The pursuit of youthful, healthy skin remains one of the most compelling drivers in the cosmetics industry. Anti-aging claims dominate consumer expectations, and scientific research continues to evolve to meet these demands. This Special Issue of Cosmetics, titled, “Skin Anti-Aging Strategies”, brings together novel insights, innovative technologies, and modern approaches to address the multifaceted nature of skin aging. Beyond scientific evidence, this Special Issue fosters collaboration and knowledge exchange, driving progress toward effective and sustainable anti-aging solutions.

We invite researchers, formulators, and specialists in the field to explore these contributions and join the dialogue shaping next-generation anti-aging strategies.
