Problems of Veterinary Education, Science and Profession

Edited by: Joanna Wojtacka

The focus of this Special Issue relates to legal responsibility in the veterinary profession, and experience, knowledge and research results related to the standards for veterinary programs that are novel, of the highest quality and characterized by innovative approaches that aim to provide benefits in animal healthcare and treatment. It presents the problems that veterinary professionals may encounter at work, as well as systemic solutions, algorithms, and new education methodologies, and, additionally, analyses of trends both in the professional veterinary workplace and in veterinary education.
