In the past several years, the otorhinolaryngology sector has had a significant impact on social life. About 10% of the cancers that affect the population annually concern the head and neck, and each year the guidelines evolve and change.

Emergencies of the otolaryngology sector are among the most common, with numerous increases in hospitalizations in the ENT department (e.g., bleeding, abscesses, and dyspnoea). Interventions in the election can significantly improve patients' quality of life and help avoid future complications.

Given the importance of the medical and surgical branch of otorhinolaryngology, we want to underline the impact in social life of this important area.
