Our Book Types

Open Access Books

Open access books are scholarly online publications on a specific subject or scientific aspect that are freely available to read and download.

Open access books can encompass a wide range of long-form academic publications, including monographs, edited books, textbooks, handbooks, reference works, project reports, and series across the humanities and social sciences (HSS) and sciences (STM). Books must be original content, not derivative of other works, fully referenced, and must pass our rigorous quality standards.

Academic textbooks authored to a high academic standard are a great source for teachers and students alike.

Edited books and monographs, particularly multidisciplinary, are well-suited for recording continuous scholarly endeavors by early-career researchers, established academics, and industry professionals.

Reprints

For all online content, MDPI Books provides the possibility to produce Reprints of journal article collections, such as Special Issues/Topical Collections/Topics/Proceedings.

These Reprints are assigned an ISBN and DOI. Printed copies can be ordered on-demand via our website or from our partnering retailers. Guest Editors receive one (1) complimentary print copy to showcase at conferences or seminars and other contributors benefit from a discount on orders for colleagues, libraries or other interested groups or individuals.

With our Custom Selection Reprint Service, you can compile published articles from any MDPI journal into a Custom Selection Reprint. Accordingly, Custom Selection Reprints allow you to tailor content to your own needs and purposes:

- Promote a collection of articles by a select author
- Bring together teaching resources or an interdisciplinary book
- Create a yearbook with contributions from an institution
- Handouts for conferences, symposiums or meetings

Custom Selection Reprints may be requested with a commitment to order a minimum of 5 printed copies.

Book and Chapter Processing Charges

The open access model relies on funding to cover publication costs, including editorial and production work, due to limited income-generating print sales. Funding typically comes from the author/editor's university department or library, professional institution, industry sponsorship, charitable support, or a national research grant. MDPI supports authors in looking for open access funding.

Chapters

CHF 1200

Authors pay a one-time chapter processing charge (CPC) of CHF 1200 for accepted manuscripts. There are no charges for rejected chapters, no submission charges, and no surcharges based on the length of a chapter.

Books

from CHF 8000

Authors/editors pay a one-time book processing charge (BPC) generally starting at CHF 8000 depending on the word count and services packages selected.

There are no submission charges.

The CPC/BPC for chapters/books not accepted for publication will be refunded, with the exception of any processing fees already incurred by MDPI Books.

Editorial Process

Proposal

Monograph authors/book editors prepare a thorough proposal.

mdpi.com/books/publish-with-us/book-proposal

Quote and Agreement

Monograph authors are sent a non-binding price quote before the final agreement is drawn up and signed. Edited book chapters are subject to a standard fee.

Manuscript Preparation

MDPI provides guidelines and templates.

Submission

Manuscripts are submitted and managed in our online submission system. A production editor guides authors through each step.

mdpibooks.jams.pub

Pre-Check

Manuscripts are checked for plagiarism, data falsification, reuse permissions for figures, inappropriate authorship credits, etc. Authors/editors may be required to revise at this stage.

Invoicing

The invoice is generally paid by the author, institution, or the funder before peer review. If the submitted manuscript differs substantially from the agreed terms (e.g., length, language quality, formatting), the BPC may be adjusted beyond the originally quoted price.

Review

The Editorial Office coordinates peer review. A minimum of one review must be secured before a manuscript is accepted. If traditional external, independent peer review is not performed, there will be a statement on the book webpage and/or the copyright page of the book.

Revision

Authors/editors are asked to correct issues identified by editors and peer reviewers. There may be one or more review and feedback rounds. By default, reviewers who request major revisions or recommend rejection are sent the revised manuscript.

Publication Decision & Acceptance

An assessment is made based on the reviews, authors' responses, and overall quality of the manuscript. The editor can select from the following options: accept in current form, accept with minor revisions, reject, ask author for revision, or ask for an additional reviewer.

Design, Formatting, and Editing

For all manuscripts accepted for publication, the Editorial Office carries out production, including formatting, language editing, and typesetting. Optional figure editing is also carried out at this stage.

Proofreading

Authors/editors are asked to proofread their manuscript and confirm the final proofs prior to publication.

Typesetting

An advanced typesetting software (LaTeX) is used to produce the final PDF.

Book Indexing

Authors and editors may add an index to their books. The book is sent to a professional indexer after final proofreading.

Publication

A book can be reviewed, edited, published, and ready to order in as little as 6 to 12 months. Our books can be downloaded for free, and printed copies can be purchased via our library or established channel partners.
