It has been brought to our attention that the majority of the text, figures, structures, and references in the title paper [1] is copied from a previously published paper written in Chinese [2]. The paper [1] will therefore be marked as retracted.

MDPI is a member of the Committee on Publication Ethics and takes seriously its responsibility to publish only high-quality research. We regret that this was not discovered during the review process and offer our apologies to the readers of Sensors.
