Message from the Editor-in-Chief

As platforms are emerging and impacting all areas of society and the economy, we aim to collect theoretical and practical analyses of the platforms and their application in different domains. We encourage all scientists and researchers to publish their theoretical, experimental, empirical and methodological contributions.

Platforms publishes full research papers, communications and review articles. There is no restriction on the maximum length of papers or charge for extra colors, etc. Electronic files supplying details of calculations and experimental procedures as well as sound files can be deposited as supplementary materials.
