Message from the Editor-in-Chief

The Romanian Society of Preventive Medicine, founded to advance public health and disease prevention, launched the Romanian Journal of Preventive Medicine (RJPM) as its official scientific publication. Initially published independently, the journal later transitioned to an online platform and joined the Society Partnership division of MDPI, broadening its international visibility and reach. In addition to publishing new content, the journal's website hosts all previously published RJPM articles, which are fully searchable and freely available for download.

The launch of the Romanian Journal of Preventive Medicine with MDPI marks a milestone, uniting specialists to advance preventive medicine, early detection, and health promotion, shaping the future of healthcare and public health.

Editor-in-Chief

Dr. Roxana Elena Bohilțea

Aims

The Romanian Journal of Preventive Medicine (RJPM) (ISSN 3091-101X) content will support the main key points of The Romanian Society of Preventive Medicine, publishing systematic reviews, original articles resulting from scientific research, opinions, educational corners dedicated to guides, and recommendations on prevention and screening developed by accredited professional scientific forums, structures, and interviews, the agenda of national and international preventive medicine scientific events, and constant correspondence with the editors, reviewers and authors. RJPM will publish scientific content updated with current knowledge, which will include multidisciplinary medical problems and will ensure the best editorial conditions for publication.
