Journal Information

Journal of Phytomedicine is an international, peer-reviewed, open access journal on all aspects of phytomedicines published quarterly online by MDPI.

Aims

The Journal of Phytomedicine (ISSN: 3042-9250) is an international, open access, and peer-reviewed journal publishing advanced research on all aspects of phytomedicines, including their development, efficacy, quality control, pharmacodynamics, and therapeutic and clinical applications. It aims to act as an interdisciplinary platform for research on medicinal plants and plant extracts, bridging the disciplines of integrative complementary medicine, chemistry, and plant science.

The journal publishes original research articles, reviews, and communications. Scientists are encouraged to publish their experimental and theoretical results in as much detail as possible. There is no restriction on the maximum length of the papers. The full experimental details must be provided so that the results can be reproduced.

Scope

The research areas covered by the journal include, but are not limited to, the following:

- Biological and pharmacological studies on medicinal plants, plant extracts, phytochemicals, and isolated natural products;
- Phytochemistry of plant-based medicines;
- Pharmacokinetics and pharmacodynamics of plant-based compounds;
- Safety and toxicology of plant-derived natural products;
- Sustainable and ethical use of medicinal plants;
- Plant extracts for disease prevention, treatment, and evidence-based health benefits;
- Quality assessment and assurance
